

PELICAN ISLAND NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE

South of Sebastian on India River

This first federal sanctuary for the protection of wildlife was established by President Theodore Roosevelt in 1903. The refuge consists of some 16 low-lying islands, covered with mangrove, that serve as a rookery for brown pelicans and other waterfowl. It is open to the public.